Have You Participated

If you have been with GWRRA for a while you have heard Glen & Carol White's quote "Participate! Participate! Participate!". We joined GWRRA in 2005 and have tried to participate in as many events as possible. Because of this we have made friends across the United States and in other countries as well. What does participate mean to you?

The Encarta Dictionary says the Participate means to take part; to take part in an event or activity.

Of course, depending on the event you are attending there are many forms and levels of participation available to you. You may be able to do on or off bike games, seminars, meals, rides, shopping, and socializing with friends. The more you take part in the more opportunities you will have for fun and to learn new things.

I challenge you to attend an event this year that you haven't attended before. It could be a chapter level event, a district level event, or a national event; just make it something you haven't done before.

Tip for Directors: take note of things that are working well at events and think if or how this could work with your chapter or district. A good idea is a good idea if it works in one place, it will more than likely work in another place.
